megadimension neptunia vii processor pack

This is a twin-stick style arcade shooter/beatemup/ripoff of The Binding of Isaac.

Low effort twin-stick graphics coupled with tired gameplay results in a poor quality flop. The game is extremely buggy, and only supports keyboard and gamepad... but the keyboard bugs out and can crash the game on launch.

It's impossible for me to recommend a game that doesn't work reliably with a keyboard and has such terrible crashiness.. Zuma is one of those games that can be played in those 10 minutes you have before to go somewhere, while you wait for your pizza to arrive or when you just want to play something simple and fun without do complex missions or play online; It's fun adictive and simple. Is not an easy game, though; the adventure mode last missions are quite challenging, and it has another cool game modes that helps to replay it. I strongly recomend it.. I LOVE THIS GAME! it takes the whole "villian and hero" to the next level! I can't wait for the next one!. quot;Connecting to load balance server"

I don't recommend this game as you can't get on it in the first place.

. cant change seated position so i had to stand. graphics suck. all by guns were going off and i wasnt pulling the triggers. controls in general are horrible. pretty sure a 5yr old made this game. Interesting concept, though it's hardly original. The game would benifit greatly from a simple compass around the ball pointing in the direction of the goal. Looking for the goal is not fun. At all. Other than that, the game is good. Going for a faster time can get addicting, though the shards you can collect seem largely unimportant. I'd like a reason to go out of my way to get the collectables... like an increase in max speed or something.

I got this game from an indiegala bundle, but I could see myself spending around $5 on the game as it is now. The stages seem kind of empty and there are some other smaller issues, but it has potential to be a great game. I haven't touched the online component, so I have no opinon on that.

On max settings (1080p) I get 100+ FPS on my 4460/960 PC

EDIT: Just reached some levels where the FPS dips into the low 40s on max. Seems it depends heavily on the particular level.

I actually rather liked this game. The inventory and craft aspects of the game were well done. For me it's all about story. I play a TON of HOGs and if it sucks me in, to the point of 'marathon'ing it, so to speak, it's a good game. This was one of those. Unfortunately it ends much sooner than I'd like, and hints at a continuation that I'm not sure is ever coming. That's the only downside of this game for me.. short and enjoyable. Wow this experience is so beautiful and sensual and the latest update adds much to the story. Anytime I have a friend over who wants to experience VR for the first time I put them in La Peri and they come out wanting more. I am looking forward to the next update.. The main thing I look for in a game is the fun factor. If the game is entertaining and I have a blast playing it, then I consider it to be a winner. Chicken Assassin: Reloaded does just that. For a mouse-clicker, the game has a surprising amount of depth and customization. Check it out.. it NOT cool. What's here is good. Sadly, that's a single episode when the schedule says we should have three by now. When it's finished and all five are released, it might be worth the money. Based on the first one... eh. Wait for a sale.

And that "music" that starts the first episode? Please never do that again.
